WE NOMINATE

Eric Malcolm Rogers, one of the gifted teachers of his generation and the recipient in 1957 of the award annually conferred upon New Jersey's "outstanding teacher of science," who has taken issue with the loudly expressed belief that the teaching of "real science" should now be limited to restricted numbers of talented students. In the "era of Sputnik," it is Rogers' thesis that what is desperately needed, "besides special training for able young scientists," is the kind of teaching which will give the public a basic understanding of the nature of science and will enable the thinking non-scientist to play his part in a civilization largely dependent upon scientific judgments and the relationships existing between men of science and administrators in businesses and governments.

Long before the achievements of Soviet scientists began to corrode American complacency and prompted leaders in all fields to plump for "crash programs" in moulding scientific manpower, Rogers, now 55 and Professor of Physics in Princeton University, was advocating that every individual "should understand science well enough to work with scientists, perhaps to take something of science into his own life." His approach to this objective was the development of new science courses—not superficial surveys (so-called "smorgasbord courses") but courses permitting the general student to consider serious science at his own pace and enabling him to work in the laboratory "as a scientist for a day" rather than "as a slave to a cook-book."

Years of hard work brought forth the block-and-gap conception of teaching science—a Rogers-popularized definition now widely used by educators. As Rogers, a Princetonian since 1942, explains it, "we choose the topics (blocks) that make a connected scheme, so that students can see how scientific knowledge fits together. We teach them thoroughly, showing methods as well as results." Some topics (gaps), often those which can be verified by texts and encyclopedias, are omitted, for it is the intention to portray science "as theory and experiment woven into a fabric of knowledge," and not as a "strange mixture of fact-collecting, wild wizardry and mathematical mysteries."

Rogers, English-born and trained at Cambridge University, including two years in the famed Cavendish Laboratory, has taught on both the school and university levels and has specialized in perfecting meaningful teaching methods. For instance, in illustrating the atomic chain reaction, Rogers developed a "mousetrap bomb" consisting of 144 mousetraps fastened to a board a yard square and encased in a glass-walled box. Each of the traps is set to throw two corks into the air. A rubber stopper is dropped into the box to set off the chain reaction. One trap sets off the next until the box becomes a maelstrom of flying corks ("atomic particles") and snapping traps ("exploding atoms").

For contending that science is fundamentally simple, and something to be enjoyed and understood; for seeking to dispel the mistaken atmosphere which surrounds science and scientists in the public estimation; for presenting a long-range teaching program rather than hysteria-swathed cure-alls; he is Town Topics' nominee for

This Is PRINCETON

CHRISTMAS, 1957

Out of Confusion, Order. Princetonians, along with most of their fellow Americans, this week looked forward to Christmas, 1957, with the same mixed feeling as Christmas, 1956—only more mixed. Whereas the guns in far-off Port Said sought to drown out Santa's sleigh bells 12 months ago, they have been joined by more determined weapons in more widespread places in the interim. Whereas the Hungarians served to enlighten the world in 1956, equally oppressed people—now more afraid—have served to frighten the world a year later.

In Paris, traditionally the city of gaiety, dramatic NATO meetings are being held, drawing the attention of the world toward not-so-gay developments. The President of the United States has been hailed by some as another saviour; yet, he is learning at the Paris meetings that such a role is difficult indeed to fill. Princetonians—and other Americans—watched this man, and extended their Christmas blessings to him.

Behind the weapons, the oppressed and the urgency of the NATO conference, of course, stood the symbolism of "sputnik." It loomed even larger as a result of America's "sputnik," an ill-fated product of American ingenuity that covered only a few feet of space above Florida but covered miles of space in newspaper columns. The Gallup

Poll, so well-known to Princetonians, reported unerringly that the people of the United States—including the people of Princeton—are growing "Impatient."

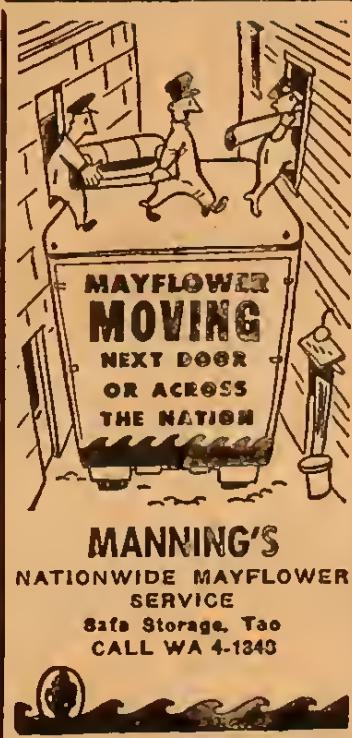

Yet, despite the technical failures and the impatience, Americans did not seem to be lost in the maze of today's fast-changing events. Christmas, as always, tended to draw order out of confusion. Imbued with its spirit, Americans paused long enough to realize that other lights have prevailed, whereas the flicker that was "sputnik" went out in a hurry.

Out of Faith, Hope. Scientists at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton have expressed less public concern over "sputnik" than others, possibly because they boast of the knowledge with which to gauge the relative significance of the Russian accomplishment. Their apparent calm has rubbed off on their Princeton neighbors, prompting at least one learned observer to label "sputnik" merely a "hijink" compared to the work being done without fanfare at the Institute.

While this thought may not gain wide popularity, Princetonians at least could stop at Christmastime and salute two young Chinese scientists at the Institute for 1957's most remarkable achievement in a rather remarkable town. Drs. Chen Ning Yang and Tsung Dao Lee, in disclosing the invalidity of the so-called "principle of parity," made a disclosure which, in time, could well dwarf the relevance of "sputnik." They earned the Nobel Prize in physics for substantial reason.

Dr. Yang, a 34-year-old Chinese Nationalist seeking American citizenship, credited "freedom of thought and "freedom of opportunity" in the United States with enabling him to climb the ladder of science to such a height. His humble speech in accepting the Nobel honor should help Americans forget the prestige damage wrought by "sputnik." It should impress Princetonians a great deal more—for Dr. Yang has chosen to forget a terrible fact that most Princetonians never knew, that not long ago he was deprived of a Princeton home, because of his race.

Sorry, Wrong Number

Seeking to find the appropriate Christmas gift for his many Tiger friends in Princeton, an inspired Yale alumnus turned the trick this week—just in time for holiday presentation. He informed all of his loyal Old Nassau acquaintances that their new telephone exchange in Princeton really consists of YALE 1 and YALE 4.

Somewhat dismayed, Princetonians dialed any and all Princeton numbers in an effort to uncover a Yale error, but, lo and behold, no matter what person or what concern they called, the correct person or correct business always answered.

"Walnuts to you!" one orange and black-striped citizen chirped, still counting on a merry Christmas.

Thanks to the likes of Dr. Yang, Princetonians—indeed, all Americans—have much for which to thank God at Christmas, 1957. Alarms may be strong, feelings may be mixed, but faith will still produce great hope. For this reason, Princeton's streets will be busy at Christmas, as always, and Princeton's churches will be crowded.

PERSONALITIES

Roger Sessions, 70 Alexander Street, whose new Third Symphony drew critical acclaim last week when it was performed at New York's Carnegie Hall by the Boston Symphony. The fruition of several years' labor, Mr. Sessions' latest major contribution to American contemporary music cements his ranking among the nation's top composers. Said the New York Times' tough-minded Howard Taubman: "... meticulously tooled, it bears the marks of a composer with a mind and style of his own... deserves respect, as well as further hearings."

Miss Dorothy Thomas, 10 Bayard Lane, whose short story, "The Christmas Lie," in the current Saturday Evening Post is her 30th in the publication and raises her number published in national magazines above 100. A private tutor in Princeton before she took over the third grade at Miss Mason's School (see also Question of the Week, page 15), Miss Thomas began her prolific career writing for The Prairie Schooner and Scribner's, now includes among her successful efforts numerous radio and TV scripts, two motion pictures, a children's book, three novels. Her Princeton acquaintances will learn with interest that her latest Sat-Eve-Post piece is autobiographical.

Walker W. Stevenson, Jr., 12 Library Place, who last Friday continued a custom inaugurated a year ago when he again doubled as Santa Claus while commuting to his desk at Hemphill, Noyes & Co., New York brokerage firm. This year's act developed into a doubleheader when S. Claus Stevenson distributed cake, candy and gifts to orphans and blind children on a Reading Railroad train between Plainfield and Jersey City at noon, made the run that night to Philadelphia to brighten the lives of inmates of the Children's Hospital.

Samuel C. Howell, 228-A Halsey Street, life-long Princetonian (save for a combat-decorated career in Korea) who this week moved upward in the University's administration with his appointment to the newly-created position of Assistant to the Dean of the Faculty. Mr. Howell will assist Dean J. Douglas Brown in the matter of personnel policies and procedures covering all professional research personnel on University appointment not holding teaching appointments, with emphasis in the areas of science and engineering. Son of faculty member Wilbur S. Howell (Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory), Mr. Howell has since 1953 been Assistant Director of the Bureau of Student Aid.

ROUND-UP

NAMES IN THE NEWS: Santa Claus has been kept busy by eager Princeton youngsters in recent days, but he's still got time for all others who want to talk "Christmas" with him and will be on hand at Walnut 4-3375 each afternoon from 3 to 5 through Christmas Eve. Peter Putnam, Princeton's well-known blind author and teacher, has a very special Yule gift, a two-year-old "Seeing-Eye" dog named Vesta, acquired by the squire of Roper Road after a three-week "get-together" period in Morristown. Clark Cameron, the prosecutor in the Community Players' version of "Witness for the Prosecution," will wait until New Year's Eve for his gift, but then will marry Elaine Benoliel, the witness in "Witness" whom he met during the production early this fall. Appropriately, their wedding party will be held at the home of Mrs. Constance Baring-Gould, the housekeeper in "Witness." John O'Hara of Princeton, long a writer of best selling books, has been accused in Albany of conspiring in the distribution and sale of obscene literature in connection with his novel, "Ten North Frederick," and may well wind up in a "test" case before the New York Supreme Court.

NOTES IN THE NEWS. In response to the University Laundry's annual plea and offer of free pick-up, Princetonians donated between 600 and 700 toys and games, "mostly usable," which have been turned over to the Family Service Agency for Christmas distribution. For tardy shoppers still planning to fit in their buying before next Wednesday, TOWN TOPICS offers the final installment of its '57 Christmas shopping series starting on page 7... needless to report, public school students begin their long-awaited Yule vacation at noon time this Friday, but necessary to report is the fact that a mid-week Christmas will result in a Township Court session next Monday evening (instead of Christmas Eve) and a Borough Court session next Thursday afternoon (also instead of Tuesday)... though little reportedly was accomplished at last week's joint "closed" meeting of Borough and Township officials, representatives of both groups expressed enthusiasm for the spirit of the gathering and said they hope for similar sessions in the none-too-distant future...

those troublesome parked autos on newly opened Avalon Place will remain there only as long as no parking space is available on 'Y' property for workers building the new YMCA-YWCA... "sabotage" of the Borough trunk sewer—perhaps the unfunny work of juvenile pranksters—was noted this week as the Engineering Department discovered pieces of concrete of varying sizes in the trunk, some large hunks still wedged inside a manhole 400 feet east of North Harrison near Harry's Brook and many smaller pieces actually in the line... fortunately for east side residents, recently installed sewer bypasses prevented any dangerous stoppage by the concrete, which apparently had been in the trunk line quite a while.

IT'S NOT HARD TO GUESS WHERE IT IS: That's right, the lobby of Princeton post office—almost as crowded as the day the Post Office Processing crew moved up to get them. They handled in time. Postmaster Charles Murray reported that 36,784 pieces of mail went through the post office's cancellation machine Monday, some 34,000 pieces above the previous year's high of 122,119, set a year ago. "Things are normal and we've got no backlog," he commented, "because we seem to be handling the mail smoother this year. We've got one additional window open on a steady basis and 35 extra men helping us." Behind the windows, the post office remained open from noon to 4 p.m. this Sunday as well as 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. each other day through Christmas Eve. (Photo by Alan Richards)

Wanted: A Helping Hand

From the 1957 TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund appeal:

"Eleven-year-old Cindy, described by her teachers as 'one of our ablest,' is the oldest in a family of four and does everything within her little power to lighten her mother's burdens. She remembers all too vividly the bitterness and bickering that led to her parents' divorce. She is under the court-order which compels an irresponsible father to contribute to his family's support. In the recent period of acute stress there was Cindy, acting without her mother's knowledge, who went directly to a case-worker for desperately needed supplemental aid in the form of food, fuel and clothing for the younger children."

Six days after the appeal first appeared, scores of Princetonians had responded promptly, contributing a total of $1,707.40. However, in addition to providing assurance that Christmas is not merely another long day, the Fund seeks "a sense of security throughout the year—to accomplish much in health and medical assistance, and to give Princeton's 'forgotten few' a desperately-needed sense of security."

Gifts may be sent to TOWN TOPICS, P.O. Box 650, or to its office at 4 Nassau Street, or at Hinkson's, 74 Nassau Street. Checks should be made payable to the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund.

CHRISTMAS "GIFT"

So Others May See. Princeton's popular Agnes Stone, blind since the age of four, cannot wait to see what Christmas tree looks like and, of course, will not enjoy the visual beauties of the coming holiday. She hasn't derived such pleasure for the past 22 years. But the spirit of cheer and youngsters will love Christmas 1957, for this year she has decided to give the most important "gift" of all.

Accompanied by an eminent New Jersey ophthalmologist, Miss Stone will fly to Los Angeles, where she will be "wired for sight," with a special "radial" set and will undergo the series of in-series of neurological experiments. A brave "volunteer," according to the physician, Miss Stone probably will sense only flashes of light, if anything at all.

"Since the patient has no recollection of vision whatsoever and doesn't know what a flash of light means," Dr. John C. Button Jr. of East Orange informed TOWN TOPICS, "any perception will be quite something. We're not looking for her to make out patients on her own. We're just hoping and praying Agnes will make out the flashes. If she does, our second experiment will be a success."

Working with Dr. Tracy Putnam, director of neurosurgery at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in California, Dr. Button first tested his new theory on a Newark woman in October. A month and a half later, she reported "no guinea pig" was still assuring reporters: "I've seen flashes of light for the first time in 18 years." Needless to say, her assistance and the Button-Putnam collaboration filled news columns across the nation.

Not Sure of Cause. Miss Stone, 32, who lives at 259 Nassau Street and travels a great deal to teach at Peddie School in Hightstown and a Catholic school in Trenton, hasn't undergone the diagnostic test and decided to contribute her services. "If the vision center of my brain—the optic nerve—is damaged, the experiment won't work," she admitted. "I became blind after whooping cough in the fall—I'm not sure which—so we don't know about the nerve. But the test will be worth it anyhow—if it you help others."

As Miss Stone explained it and Dr. Button confirmed it, a photo-electric cell was used in the first experiment to pick up light and convert it into a small electric charge that would stimulate the brain cells. The experiment was successful, according to the ophthalmologist, because the patient could identify "light flashes" at both her right and left.

A single-point wire, about half the thickness of a hair, was put into the hole in the patient's skull, Dr. Button explained, and inserted into the center of vision. The wires were attached to a transistorized amplifier, which, in turn, was connected to the photoelectric cell. "In Agnes' case," he noted, "Dr. Putnam found a 10-kilohertz signal about one-third smaller than the first one we used. We will also experiment with a different electrode and an improved photo-electric cell, maybe being encouraged by the present technique and equipment should improve our chances with Agnes."

Echoing the observation of his ophthalmologist, Dr. Button pointed out that "we don't know whether she has the necessary brain cells. But he stressed the algebra of the surgery, which he said, "is that the October patient was 'the first real blind person to get the flashes of light' and adding that 'Agnes could be the first to receive them after being blind so long."

In the "Primitive Stage," The New Jersey physician admitted, this theory is in the "primitive stage." He has been developing it for years, however, and, in the course of time, believes blind persons will be able to use it to "perceive light or dark, shapes of people, motion, motion."

He likened his concept to a radar screen—and said the end result might "strike the brain cells like a bullet."

The doctor said much work must be done on the equipment employed before his hoped-for results come close to realization. In this connection, he reported that he will visit the RCA Lab-

It's a little too early for the Weather Men to lend his "official" advice concerning the amount of snow on Christmas Eve, but he's sure there will be an accumulation of "white" for December. In fact, the Man's finding it difficult to keep up with the demand for snow. For Saturday, there came several days ahead of schedule, just after TOWN TOPICS went to press, mid-week storm!

Regarding the outlook for this week, the guy is reasonably in-the-know, and he expects slightly higher than normal temperatures Thursday and Friday followed by rain or snow Saturday. There might even be enough to leave Princeton white for Christmas.

Echoing the observation of his ophthalmologist, Dr. Button pointed out that "we don't know whether she has the necessary brain cells. But he stressed the algebra of the surgery, which he said, "is that the October patient was 'the first real blind person to get the flashes of light' and adding that 'Agnes could be the first to receive them after being blind so long."

He likened his concept to a radar screen—and said the end result might "strike the brain cells like a bullet."

The doctor said much work must be done on the equipment employed before his hoped-for results come close to realization. In this connection, he reported that he will visit the RCA Laboratory in Princeton early next month to discuss future use of the latest RCA products.

To raise necessary funds for the trip to Los Angeles, Miss Stone and Dr. Sly have appeared on several radio programs. They have succeeded in obtaining adequate funds to assure the round-trip flight, and a $1,000 grant is expected.

The Princeton teacher and her medical escort will head west the day after Christmas. The expedition will take place the afternoon of December 27 and the results will be known that same afternoon. Cheerfully, Miss Stone announced she will return home right away, "but I will bring a Christmas gift to mankind, so as to be here 'in plenty of time for the next school term."

TRIANGLE SHOW

Formula for Success. The 66th annual production of the Triangle Club of Princeton University—"After A Fashion!"—hasn't got a plot. It doesn't boast distinguished music and, for the most part, lyrics for the show's songs are something less than standard. It has the fewest funny sketches in many a revue. But what "Fashion!" does have—and has from start to finish—is a real "success formula."

What are the ingredients of this formula which so excited four fine McCarter Theatre audiences (two sellouts) last weekend and by now must be exciting crowds elsewhere along the long Triangle road? First and foremost, the formula includes wonderful choreography—very likely the finest in Triangle annals. It also has three other obvious "plus" elements: lavishly appropriate costumes, simple but eyecatching sets and an unusually good orchestra. To lend the formula balance, the talented '57 cast has that steady quality.

Despite the total absence of plot, the Triangle Show's writers have maintained a solid "fashion" theme—not chronologically, but orderly enough to sustain interest. And professional director Milton Lyon, providing his Dior-like touch for the third straight year, has enhanced the interest value by instilling "pace" as it has rarely been instilled in previous Triangle productions.

Interest, accompanied by pace, has been accomplished without the aid of local gags or jokes aimed at the earth-shaking developments of our day. As in the case of last year's "Take A Gander!", success has been achieved by excluding profanity and deriving humour through subtle, topical situations. Throughout, "Fashion!" carries with it a certain stimulating freshness.

Frolicking for Fun. Surprisingly and beneficially, no one or two numbers stood high above the others—at least, on opening night. There were three memorable satirical productions—one lampooning in beautiful and precise fashion a small-town choral group, another covering opera in almost overly thorough fashion, presenting a hillbilly vocalist as the guitar-strumming hero, and the third jarring the audience with an unbelievably realistic recreation of "silent" film movements. There were two particularly amusing musical interpretations of current trends: Seth Montgomery's lament over the Dodgers' transfer to Los Angeles and a quartet's endorsement of the "Ivy League Look."

Excellent dance numbers in Act I were "Happy Days" and "Ten Gallon Man," the latter touching on every angle of today's "western" craze, while "The Skunk" and "Children's Playground" highlighted the continued grade-A choreography in Act II. A terrific dancing duet, performed skillfully by Ben Lombardi and Bob Leahy, improved a so-so ballad, "Melissa," which Leahy sang quite well, and Clint

In the Christmas Spirit

With dignity and great conviction, the Princeton Community Players brought eight moving scenes of the "Giotto Frescoes" to appreciative Playmill audiences Sunday through Wednesday. The true spirit of Christmas was conveyed in this second Players' offering of the season, and the interpretation was made all the more appealing by the settings of artist Peter Cook and his crew—simply conceived and, displayed through cheesecloth, produced to look much like the famed 1303 paintings they represented.

Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson's calm, effective reading of Mac N. Peter Miller's accompanying script blended nicely with a well-placed, well-drilled 11-member choral group, directed by Eliot Forbes. Joan Cook's handling of a 19-member cast was inspiring, while her aforementioned husband worked wonders with a production staff of only eight players.

"The Christmas Story," as rendered by the Princeton theatrical organization, cannot be described adequately in this space. TOWN TOPICS is particularly thankful for the pageant's seven performances, since all proceeds will go toward the newspaper's Christmas Fund. Princeton should be thankful because the Players revived it after a four-year lapse. The lone sad note: only one-fiftieth of Princeton's cultured population took the opportunity to see a truly beautiful production.

Jakeman's rendition of the show's top ballad, "Fashions," seemed better than the tune itself.

As indicated above, colorful production numbers spelled "success" for Triangle's 66th offering. Even after first-night trimming, 18 of them remained—most of them extremely worthwhile—in sharp contrast to only three sketches devoted solely to comedy—none of them truly outstanding. One alleged funny skit, "Pick-A-Peck-A-Pizza," and one quartet number, "At the Bottom of the Sea," were eliminated though the latter could well have been saved in lieu of "The Brave Bulls," a sketch that fell far short of its intended mark.

With the necessary cuts, "Fashion!" still runs close to two and a half hours, but nothing else should be removed. Too much work has gone into the remainder, and anyhow Director Lyon has seen to it that the time flies by.

Credits for Luminaries. The entire cast and crew deserved the enthusiastic ovations extended last weekend. It is difficult to single out stars, for great balance overshadowed the many individual moments of glory. Fred Wardenburg, Triangle president, had a hand in most of the proceedings and exhibited a delightful comic touch. The dancing of Lombardi and Dick Johnson, chorus captain, inspired a fully competent group of "chorines." Bruce Rabbino, club vice-president, and Remak Ramsey, the one with the "l-o-n-g" face, wore many hats and all fit well.

WHITE MEAT AND DARK

And Wine to Drink. For Christmas and New Year feasting, choose meat or fowl from any of Princeton's food stores. The A & P, Acme, Davidson's and the Food Mart have anything you like in meat or fowl, from geese, ducklings, turkeys, ham.

Davidson's presses you for a portion of sucking pig, fresh, salted, or dried. (The green apple to go in his mouth is right there in the produce department.) Food Mart will cook your goose (or anything else) if you order by Monday.

From the Nassau Delicatessen on Palmer Square you may buy a Jorder's boneless Smithfield Virginia baked ham—a mouthful in more ways than one. It's $2.95 per pound, cut in any size you prefer. The same place you can get fresh caviar if you order it 24 hours ahead of time, and pate of all kinds, canned, of course.

With rice or saffron rice from Princeton's Gourmet, with nicely House of Stevens old-fashioned mince-meat will round it off with an abundance of aromatics.

Pum puddings at the Del. and at Cox Delicatessen, too. The little brimful delicatessen at 182 Nassau has Premier's green-rice olives and fragrant sauted nuts to go with your ham or sucking pig.

And for your New Year's Eve, Cox has cold cuts and cheese, ginger ale and soda, kosher deli, pickles, anchovy paste and eggs, bacon, ham.

For holiday desserts, order ice-cream molds from Vledt's, 110 Nassau, but order them right now, because you have to allow time for delivery.

Soup to Nuts

Turn down Spring Street, just off Witherspoon, and pick up a tripe casserole for your next party.

A new shop called "Soup to Nuts" has opened as an outlet for the unusual prepared foods cooked by Princeton's top caterers. Here you may buy the creative products of S. G. Caterers (Mrs. Virginia Morrison), The Covered Dish (Mrs. A. P. Carter), Mrs. Robert Buggs, Miss Marietta Attwood and Mrs. May Fish. There are also home-made biscuits, rolls and cakes and a deep freeze to keep everything until you want it.

There will be ice-cream, chocolate, fruit, especially cookies, tea, cheese. Everything will be sold on a bulk "cracker-barrel" basis, not in packages. Gordon Waldron, owner, has a plan to open a place a short while will deal strictly in the service or preparation of food, particularly in off-beat foods such as dishes prepared from beans, let us say, or tripe.

Curiously enough, the shop does not plan to stock either soup or nuts!

Five days. For impromptu desserts, the chocolate shop has four ice-cream Christmas trees for $1.50 and a large ice-cream cake filled with red and green cherries and rolled in chocolate ice-cream "bark."

Nearly 200 wines, domestic and imported, at Wines by Game. Take your pick at Cousin Palmer Square, where the wine steward likes for a white Burgundy, Chateau Latour '53 or for a red, Chateau Margaux '53. A Bourdeaux might be Chateau Carbonnieux '52 or Chateau Beychevelle '52 if you like a red Bourdeaux. The Rhine wine from Germany could be Schloss Johannisberg '53. Community Wine and Liquor on Witherspoon has a new shipment of wines. Try a Chamberlain '47 (Sauterne) for a red dessert. Chamberlain '47 is a large stock of Harvey's Ports and sherries here, too.

The fruit-cake to go with your wine is also to be had. Like S. G. Caterers cakes from the Del., Charlotte Cakes from the Del. and Gourmet, Italian Panforte and the Dresden Christstollen bring the traditional European Christmas cakes to Princeton's tables. Both at the Del. The Baumkuchen, or Tree-Cake from Dresden and the favorite Lebkuchen will certainly add a richness to your celebration.

At Louise Mass Tiny Candy shop, 52 Nassau, you can buy the macaroons called Run Royals from the kitchens of Rose Marie de Paris. Two pounds of brandy fruit-cake in this shop—$3.25.

store. It's 99¢ for two pounds, in an attractive metal box topped with a winter scene. How about Pepperidge Farm's brioche for Christmas?

For holiday nibbling, the Gourmet has Petits Fours, Parisiens, Serve, or give, the Italian deluxe hard candies in their colorful cardboards.

The Del. has once again the Lubec Marzipan, mild and not so rich as the Italian. Buy a marzipan pie or a marzipan cake, or a slice of "ham" or a sweet angle with chocolate robes. A chocolate marzipan loaf is for the adventurous.

Tobler's "Pigels" is a magnificent Persian box, 15 inches square, filled with those Tobler chocolates. You pay $15. A round Tobler box has a modern willow-and-vase still life.

Gift boxes of candy and delicacies are very extravagantly wrought this year. Who may wonder whether the Del. hasn't gone into the business of interior decoration. A box may be 18 inches in diameter, or bigger, or just square. The cover may be a Doré brocade, or perhaps a tapestry styled like a suit-tooled. Inside: petit four, almond cookies, caviar, foie gras, canapes, etc.

We loved: almond butter cake. You can have: chocolate fruit nut over fudge cake.

Mare Sweets. Viet's candy canes are hand-made, sharp rich and clear in their reds and white. Buy a giant one for 35¢, or regular ones in the proper ordinariness. German candy, Drotte apples, Wallace wefer-thin mints, all belong around your tree. Hard candy comes in tins; clear, foamy sugar candy comes in round numbers. In a one-pound box or on a stick disguised as a giant Christmas tree lolly-pop.

Glare fruit costs $2 for a one-pound box, or a half-pound maple syrup. Sants are 15¢. Viet's also has foil-wrapped tree novelties and stocking stuffers. Brand names in this shop are Fannie Farmer, Whitman, Sherry and Drotte in all sizes from one to five pounds.

Thorne's dazzler for the season is Pangburn's Coffeepot. Wagons and other almost life-size filled with Raptimes chocolates. It costs $15. Pangburn's Ragtime chocolates (it's anybody's guess why they're those that appear again in the gift box with a velvet top, two pounds for $4.50. A Spanish doll guards the top of another chocolate box—$5.

Small Stover and Candy Cupboard are still the sweetest words at Thorne's. Candy Cupboard starts at 50¢, and you may buy minatures or big full-bodied chocolates. Stover has Rosebud Mints in pastel shades with roses on top. Italian marzipan in a tri-

The Food Mart, at 20 Witherspoon, has acquired a new manager in the person of Sam or George Goupiel. (Produce and meat will continue to be under the same management as before.)

Robert Gaskill is the new manager and he brings to the Witherspoon Street food store some 20 years of experience in the retail grocery business. At present, he has just completed a short course in sales in his new post and so he is still sorting the beans from the rice, so to speak. He plans, however, to broaden the scope of the canned goods in his department and to provide more and better of everything.

angular box has a clock at the top, with Santas, snowmen, Christmas trees and sleighs grouped appropriately about. It is later than you think!

Buy a tin of toffee wafers, a box of assorted toffee, or a big box of assorted salami. Russian salami is particularly popular. The lemon slices and the candy canes look their best in a smell stocking.

Black Lantern, Louise Mau and others all have the crystalized Christmas forms that make pleasant holiday table decorations and good eating, too. Buy a deer, a sleigh to fill a snowman with a springy being-boing neck, or a plastic boot just waiting for sweets.

Topics Of The Town

Bentley dies in Crash. A 56-year-old brother, was born in Somerville, at the time, his parents were conducting a school for a mining company.

EVERYONE'S INVITED

Christmas Party in the Square. All the local business leaders have been invited to the 19th annual community Christmas party to be held on Palmer Square Christmas Eve. The celebration has been extended by the Princeton Lions Club and Princeton Municipal Improvement, Inc., sponsors of the party.

A highlight of the affair will be the appearance of Santa Claus at the start of his annual roof-top rounds. He will extend greetings to those present via a microphone attached to a megaphone, into which he descends, and carried over a loud-speaker system to the audience.

Other events on the program are free movies for children at the Playhouse, distribution of candy canes by the Lions Club, and the serving of hot refreshments for the public. The program will start at 5:15 with the showing of Christmas movies at the Playhouse. At 5:30 a Christmas music program will start, and at 6:45 children will attend the program which will receive candy canes at the rear of the Post Office.

Children at the movies will receive their canes at the theatre. The Rev. Dr. John R. Bodo will lead the Christmas prayer at 6:50, followed by community carol singing by the audience and the Community Chorus. Santa Claus will appear on the roof top and talk to the children, and at 6:20 hot refreshments will be served to the adults by the Nassau Tavern. Following a canopy at the rear of the hotel on Palmer Square West.

ALLEGEDLY KILLED

Bentley dies in Crash. A 56-year-old brother, was born in Somerville, at the time, his parents were conducting a school for a mining company.

The accident occurred when Mr. Estey, driving his 1952 Lincoln, Richard Zalesky of Manville, pulled into the path of Mr. Ballantine's car to pass two trucks, stalled on Route 202 near Zalesky, whose vehicle skidded 200 feet before the crash, was critically injured. Mr. Ballantine did not regain consciousness and died in Somerset Hospital at 9:15, 45 minutes after the collision.

Mr. Ballantine, who commanded here daily, was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ballantine & Sons, one of the nation's largest beer breweries. It is located in New Jersey.

Married, he was the father of a young son. His mother and a sister also survive.

CONDITION "GOOD"

After 32 Stitches. The condition of Mrs. Lawrence W. Estey, Rockdale Road, was listed as "good" by Dr. John R. Bodo, Hospital authorities at midweek following a serious one-car accident last Thursday morning. Mrs. Estey was severely injured when her auto skidded on a wet road. Four straight poles and 32 stitches were required to close deep cuts in her head.

According to Lawrence Township police, who investigated the accident, Mrs. Estey was driving north on Lawrenceville Road, approximately in front of Morris Hall for the Aged near Lawrenceville. She was maintaining a slow rate of speed for a funeral procession in front of her. An unidentified motorist passed her and, on sighting the funeral vehicles, cut sharply in front of her to get back into line.

When Mrs. Estey applied her brakes to avoid hitting the other auto, the heavy road betrayed her and she crashed head-on into the pole. The Lawrence Township Fire Department and the Somerset County Sheriff's Department, Princeton Hospital, but investigating officers were unable to locate the offending motorist, who failed to stop after the accident.

"STILL INVESTIGATING"

Woman's Death Mystery. Trenton Township police and Mercer County investigators, a joint investigation team, continued their search for clues this week in an effort to determine how a Trenton woman was found dead in a wooded area about 100 yards west of Alexander Road between the canal and Stony Brook bridges. The body of the woman, tentatively identified as Mrs. Ethel Bodo, 46, whose last known address was 234 N. Montgomery St., Trenton, was discovered December 11 by Nathaniel Marshall, of Lower Alexander Road, while hunting for firewood.

Patrolman Jack Petrone, handling the Township's end of the investigation, reported that Captain John Broderick, of Trenton, who called himself a "friend" of the deceased, identified her body after being contacted by County authorities. Trenton police officers said the case is still considered "unsolved" a week following discovery of the death.

though "we will know a lot more about it if we can catch up with one man."

When found as snow began falling, the Thomas woman was dressed lightly in white sweater, green plaid skirt and black shorts, suggesting that she crawled into the underbrush while the weather was milder or was deposited there by a motorist who was unable to go on by in a car. There was no evidence of violence, according to investigators.

Examiners could have killed her, Mathew R. Lakin, deputy county physician, speculated. He said she had been dead from four to seven days before Mr. Marshall discovered her.

FUND SHORTAGE SEEN

"Victory Gifts" Requested. The Community Fund is facing a shortage of money, which is now a total of $70,000. The current total is $14,448, and additional unreported contributions have been estimated at $11,000.

In order to meet the shortage, which would hit all of the 15 health and welfare agencies benefiting from the campaign, the campaign committee has decided to ask hundreds of its subscribers by mail for an extra "victory gift." It also appeals to all subscribers to consider the possibility of increasing the amount already given.

A thousand or more victory gifts ranging from $2 to $600, would in all probability meet the shortage, the committee believes. Those desiring to join the gift can send a check now or designate it for future payment only in 1958.

All pledges and contributions should be mailed to P.U.C.F. Box 291, Princeton, N.J. In addition, with payment on pledges already recorded, subscribers are asked to mark the present response as a "victory gift."

COMMUNICATION PROBLEM

What to Do When Schools Close. A variety of ways of informing children and parents when schools will be closed because of bad weather were discussed Tuesday at the meeting of the Borough Board of Education. Two possibilities, a radio station and a television in the morning and a teletext service, were seriously considered and will be investigated by a committee.

A request from the Calvary Baptist Church to use the high school's parking lot Sunday mornings was granted. The procedure will be to have the church complete its own lot within "a reasonable length of time."

The resignation of Mrs. Carol Eckmeyer, teacher of physical education of the high school, was accepted by the board. Miss Helen McNeef, who has just returned from a year in Korea, was appointed substitute teacher of physical education at the school.

Suggested as a successor for the late George Wintzinger as a member of the Sinking Fund Commission for Nassau Schools were Edward A. MacMillan and Harry A. Ferr II. Action will be taken at a later date.

HOLIDAY YULE PLANS

Related Visiting Hours. Princeton Hospital plans to make Christmas a pleasant season especially for patients who will be unable to return home. Arrangements include a general relaxation of the hospital's visiting rules. Patients will be allowed to have visitors from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Christmas Day.

Some decorated trees will be displayed and lights will be on.

Decorated trees will range from a tall spruce on the hospital grounds to trees at every nursing station and in the maternity and pediatric departments.

Patients will be greeted at mealtimes by helpful Santa Clauses in full regale and beard. The hospital food service at the hospital's trays will serve meals in the Santa costumes made by Miss Maxine Corman, head of the Dining Department.

On Christmas Eve, gifts for all children in the pediatric division will be provided by the women's branch of the Knights of Columbus.

On Christmas Day, children will receive stockings with toys presented by the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross.

administrator, and members of his staff, will present a gift to each patient at the hospital and at Merrick.

A Christmas Eve service will be held in the Methodist Chapel at 7 p.m. The Rev. George Mai will officiate. Various groups have over the past week sung carols at the hospital.

COURT ACTION

Sessions Are Light. Court action diminished in Princeton this week, and the traditional trend at the Yule tide season.

In the Borough, John James, 38, 114 Witherspoon Street, was fined $100 and costs collected. Dr. Allen O. Whipple, 76, 30 North Stanworth, paid $15 in traffic court for failure to yield the right of way and for using a "stop" sign.

Campbell Pilcher, 38, 110 Witherspoon, $12.

In the Township, John Puck, 24, of Linden Lane was fined $20 for reckless driving. The same charge was brought against John C. 24, Princeton - Lawrenceville Road, cost him $15.

In Trenton, the Department of Motor Vehicles announced revocation for two months of the license of Don W. O'Connor, 21, Alexander Road, following three convictions for speeding, passing for passing, and a red light. Five convictions for speeding, passing "stop" signs and passing on the right cost Charles Bartho, 32, 235 Washington Road, his license for six months.

BRIDGE, ANYONE?

Chess Offered, Too. The Princeton Adult School will have courses in both bridge and chess in its curriculum this year. The session will open on January 16 at Princeton High School.

Bridge will be taught in two sections, one for beginners and another for those having playing experience. Dr. William P. Jacobs of Trenton will teach the beginners' class. A frequent tournament competitor, he has considerable teaching experience as well. He will instruct in the various recognized systems and emphasize the strategic principles and logic behind bidding and play.

Samuel Rabkinowitz, who wrote "The Bridge Corner" in the Trenton Times, will teach the intermediate class. In addition to his teaching career, he has also taught many adult classes in the finer points of the game.

Werner Sonntag of the Trenton Chess Club will be in charge of the courses in chess. Instruction will deal with the three important phases of chess: the openings, the middle game and the end game.

Thirty per cent of the class time will be spent on theory and 50 per cent in playing. Students are requested to bring their own boards and pieces.

25-YEAR CLUB TO MEET

Holiday Dinner Planned. Some 60 members of the Princeton 25-Year Club will attend their annual dinner-meeting this Thursday in University Commons. The organization is composed of employees who at least a quarter-century ago have served in the University's Department of Grounds and Buildings.

Alan W. Richards, freelance photographer, will be the evening's speaker. Mr. Richards will present a slide-lecture based on his coverage of the 1956 Olympic Games in Australia and an extended trip made last summer to Russia and Scandinavia.

Matthew B. Maxwell of 37 William Street, club president, is chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements. The committee includes Dr. Walter Macle, 108 Jefferson Road. Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president emeritus of the university, is among the university administrators invited to the meeting. Edward J. MacMillan, charter member of the club, will also attend. He retired last June as superintendent of the Department of Grounds and Buildings.

FOR LUCKY STUDENTS

Kiwanis Buy Tickets. As a result of its board of directors' action Monday evening, the Kiwanis Club of Princeton will enter one of its members, Donald Bryant, musical director of the Columbus Boychoir School, to purchase 100 tickets to the 1957 Kiwanis International Convention this Saturday. Mr. Bryant was asked to give the tickets to the McCarter Theatre performances (see story, page 10) to young participants interested in music at four public schools in Princeton and two in Lawrenceville.

Also at the board meeting, Kiwanis announced that after their regular luncheon gathering on December 20 will be Dr. Paul Fodor, professor at New York Medical College. Dr. Fodor, who is a distinguished career includes consultant work for the National Cancer Institute and the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University, will discuss his broad subject, "Man and the Universe."

SOMETHING FOR OTHERS: First graders at Miss Mason's School plan to give that other children may enjoy Christmas, too. Headline are Barry Meredith and Cully Erdman; behind them are Bill Frothington, George Sayen, Howie Menand and Kathy Potter. For what they and others at the school hope Santa Claus will bring them, read below. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

Question of the Week

Question: What do you want for Christmas and what does Christmas mean to you?

Location: Miss Mason's School.

Barry Meredith, 2800 Main Street, Somerville: I don't know as far as I've been thinking about it. Christmas is the time to do things for others. Especially for people who don't have as much as we do. I guess I've been told. Some people say that it's not really Santa, but your Mother and Father, but it's really Santa!

Barty Meredith, 6 Greenhouse Drive, Somerville: I want campons and soldiers. And I think Santa will bring it to me.

George Sayen, 167 Edgewater Road: I want a little car — a Volkswagen. With two doors, and ones that open.

Cully Erdman, 73 Marion Road: It is, too, Santa Claus that comes to us. He brings us lots of things. Indians and cowboys. Good Christmas is a day when you get lots of presents, but it's also, well, just a real special day.

Kathy Potter, 23 Edgewater Road: They say sometimes it isn't real what it is! And Christmas is a time to give things to others. We're giving some people some toys we have.

Abby Patterson, 46 Westcott Road: I want a big rocking horse that's green and I want a black and white one. Here at school we're bringing food to give to some people Christmas. That's part of it.

Billy Frothington, Constitution Hill: I want a game called "Winnie the Pooh" and a jacket, models, games and all sorts of stuff. Memmie said she might get the Winnie the Pooh for me. But sometimes all we think about is getting presents.

Howie Menand, 3d, 140 Hedge Road: I want a little jeep that goes 40 miles an hour. A little one about like that, but big enough to get in. Christmas is Jesus' birthday, that's why we celebrate it.

Through the Years

The first Christmas centered around the birth of a boy who, when he became a man, was to say that the little children should be allowed to see him because they were part of the spirit of heaven, and again, that adults must "re-born" as little children before they could enter the kingdom of heaven.

After 2000 years, children are still the center of Christmas.

The Three Kings brought presents to honor the baby Jesus, according to the Bible, probably because they expected great things to be done by Him. Mothers and fathers of the twentieth century give presents to their children as an expression of their love and wisdom in happy life.

At its question of the week, Town Topics has asked first graders at Miss Mason's School to tell what presents they hope to get and what they think Christmas means.

made by the same kitchen, as always, despite the shop's change in ownership. —

Irish chocolates—a novelty to us—appear at Louise Mass in a painted candlestick adorned with a leprechaun. (Now, if you're not the kind, I hard candies in this little shop have been poured into a hollow plastic cone, two feet high, almost two inches in diameter. Holds ten pounds and costs $12.50.

Wrapped hard candies have been formed into a colorful wreath about a foot across. It's green, red, or striped red and green, depending on your choice.

Your children will love a box set made of twelve candies and wrapped in hard candy. You might buy a painted cardboard globe (50¢) and fill it yourself. Its scene is a Christmas one. Buy a snowman with an empty stomach and feed him at the same store.

Louise Mass has the full line of Rose Merle, including white chocolates. The gift basket of the season is a basket that has been interspersed with wide velvet ribbon. Inside are two gold-wrapped Rose Merle boxes filled with chocolates. Price: $10.95.

Black Lantern's bulk chocolates are thick and black or cote au lait. There are pralines, cashew patties, and butter creams, $1.35 the mixed package. Roasted peanuts, cashews, almonds, and peanuts will fill up your chocolate guests.

Gourmet has cascaded grapes, packed with their label for $2.50. Old Steve Mart's "Peach Leather" is a composite of dried apricots, dried peaches and lemon juice with sugar. Said to come from the old Chinese recipe. Probably buried in the garden along with the family silver when the Yankees come.

A & P provides a good selection of gift items. Gift Book for 45¢. Five pounds of Warwark chocolates in this supermarket cost $2.89. Milk and dark chocolates are 59¢ a pound.

Fill Up a Basket. Delicacies for Christmas giving are usually packaged attractively in baskets. Schaefer's Market, 350 Nassau, specializes in top-notch fruit for

On the theory that women are ladies and do not indulge in spirituous liquors, Wine & Game offers for Christmas a "For Him," "For Her" gift collection.

"He" gets a gift-wrapped bottle of whisky (probably Old Grandad), for reasons well known later. "She" gets a bottle of perfume or fragrance called "Le Numero 312," imported from France by Emette Hyde.

This perfume is fresh and light, sweet and would suit any woman who is not a pronounced leopard-skin type. You may buy it—or ask to have it bought for you in cologne with eau-de-cologne, $7.50; perfume, with funnel, $5; or perfume in larger quantities for $12.50 and $20.

"Le Numero 312" has been popular in the States. The wrappings are sheets of plain gold paper and this is the reason you give—or get—the perfume as a contribution to Old Grandad; the old boy is also gift-wrapped in gold paper this year. Actually, of course, you may buy the perfume separately or with any quantity you prefer.

Don't be misled by "Numero's" association with Wine & Game. It's for weering, not drinking.

those welcome baskets. Other comestible delicacies, too, if you wish. A chest, hammered with a has-bee design of an English village, is the eye-opener at the Del. It's 16 inches long, $50, and looks well enough to make you think of Quaker's vining addition to anybody's pantry. Baskets of gift products at this store start at $6.50.

Northern Comfort, at Gourmet, is a "mountain brew, aged in the woods and distilled from the juice of the maple tree." Well, it's very, milky, and, of course, it's Jenkins' spiced tea. Gourmet come in attractive little cannisters ($1.50) covered with Japanese papers in terra-cotta and black designs. — scutto; and cheese, cheese, cheese. Assortments are $3.95 to $5.95. English Mutton, $2.50, and English Stilton, for $2.50, and crocks of cheddar with port, gorgonzola with brandy, edam with sauterne—and a good port, please, just to sip.

Pour A Present Those Christ-mas decanters are out on the sideboard again. Wine & Game, Claredge, Community Wine and Liquor, Cousins and Yeoman's have them all.

At Claredge, in the Princeton Shopping Center, all the decanters are arranged together on a table in the window of the store. Decide, after you browse, on the $2.50, $3.50, or $5.00. One of the bottles that range down from that in price. This liquor store has its own label and is particularly pleased with its bottled beer. It has the 86 proof Blue Grass Rum, vodka, and blended whisky also bear the Claredge label.

Wine & Game will fill gift baskets, or sell them to you empty. A new picnic basket looks like a good thing to buy, so does a white burlap duffie bag trimmed with black plastic.

Yeoman's holiday favorite is the little cafe set of two pint decanters by the factory. By the right over the diamond, not until the bourbon is gone. High ball, old-fashioned, and cocktail glasses, plus blenders, olives, onions and pepper are seen to be in full supply on Yeoman's shelf. Just in case you have more guests than you expected.

Serve yourself, or buy for special presents, any of the Bishop glassware at Wine & Game. For $20 a dozen, you get fine crystal glassware with fired-on etchings of game birds done by Richard E. Bishop.

Each piece of glassware is edged with a fine band of silver. We saw the "fashionable" and "highball" glasses and cocktail shaker but many other pieces can be ordered from a catalogue of Mr. Bishop's work.

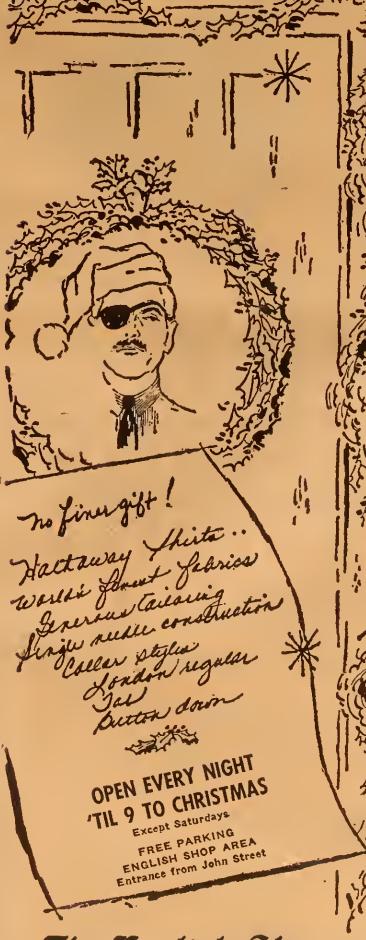

One Minute to Twelve. Last-minute presents, stocking stuffers and a toast to the New Year will bring these columns to a close. Wine & Game has, besides the Bishop glasses, a collection of Bishop etchings of game birds. These are about 6 to 20 inches in diameter, around $30 or so.

The Silver Shop provides silver labels for your decanters, and the Gift Shop at the Princeton Inn has a fine little collection of smoky crystal decanters. Serve drinks from the pewter tankards at the Silver Shop, and for a special present, give an ok silver tankard. This appears to be the end of a silver "year" made like the gates you put at the top of stairs to keep children from falling down.

News Of The Theatres

It is impossible for Miss Tallchief to dance so much as a step without projecting the electric quality that makes her a prima ballerina. Her style is ornate throughout was casual and informal. Showing how the movements of her body suggested the sensual nature of the Harem Fantasy, she said, "I am sure that Miss Tallchief said, as she danced "She's sort of slinky, I suppose."

In the intermission following the talk with Mr. Terry, (a talk which was to be followed by a frank discussion of the idiosyncrasies of the McCarter stage floor), Miss Tallchief danced two ballets. The first was a bravura piece in the Pas de Trois, a variation from Pas de Trois, choreography by Balanchine, and the second Boreeuse from Fokine's choreography for Firebird.

"A ballerina," Mr. Terry said, "is someone whose dynamic personality shows itself instantly. The moment she appears on stage," McCarter was filled on Monday night with young ballet students and it was from their number that a Miss Tallchief received Princeton's tribute to her as a ballerina.

After talking briefly with Mr. Terry about technique, she rose from her chair and performed the first of two demanding pieces: a single easy, controlled motion of arms, legs and body. The audience was absolutely still, watching. From the back of the orchestra came a soft, and childish whisper that filled the theater: "Wow!"

THE PLAYHOUSE

Jailhouse Rock (Dec. 19-21), a bad-sounding film whose only reason for being, contortion singer Elvis Presley, deserves the same description. The film is a collection of pictures in Princeton — a run apparently designed to keep the youngsters' vacation merrier and to keep adults out of the bars and nightclubs. Conveniently paroled from prison after appearing on a prison TV show, ex-con Presley receives some pretty stimulating offers, including a $1000-a-night real cool, and "If you ever come to Riverport, give me a blast." That's all Elvis needs; he owns his man. The difficulties he rends in a number of "Rock" inspired ditties that by now are all too-familiar to parents of teenagers with access to the family piano, if just means unfortunate Elvis' return to prison on a manslaughter rap because murder would have kept him there so much longer.

Tammy and the Bachelor (Dec. 22-24), in Technicolor and CineScope, comes to the Playhouse a half-hour early for two logical reasons: (1) Dickie Reeds' sole vocal effort, "Tammy," is a big hit, which means good vacation box office, and (2) The Playhouse, situated in a quiet town which means the theatre will remain in one piece. The story is not of prime importance, since the main purpose of the movie is to seem to be a complete Miss Reeds' popularity. She is no great shakas as an actress, but she meanders pleasantly through this tale of a backwoods girl who has moved with her grandfather to civilization, and, at last, the lessons taught are closer to schoolhouse than jailhouse. Despite some of the rundown planning of a declining aristocratic Southern family and, in return, the clan's eligible bachelor, Walter Brennan as a jolly old preacher, helps save the film from decline, poverty and, in re-

MCCARTER THEATRE

Boychoir to Sing
The first Princeton performances of "Amahl and the Night Visitors," the famous opera on television by the Columbus Boychoir, will be given Saturday in McCarter Theatre. They are scheduled for 2:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Bruce Renshaw, 12-year old son of Mrs. Janet Renshaw of 12 Dempsey Street, will sing the title role. Amahl's mother will play the role of a Westminster Choir College student, Miss Elaine Johnson of Midland, Tex., who is making the trip here for the concert.

The Boychoir gave Menotti's opera more than 30 times during the last summer and fall while on a South American tour. It was first performed by them before Christmas on a national television network several years ago, and received instant acclaim.

Full orchestra accompaniment will be used for the opera, which will climax Saturday's program. Preceding it will be a selection of Christmas carols and hymns for which the singing boys are particularly noted.

Donald Bryant will direct Saturday's program. Tickets may be purchased at the University Store and at the Columbus Boychoir School on Rosedale Road.

The Boychoir will present "Amahl" on Christmas Day at 3 over television Channel 4. A program will follow.

UNIVERSITY CHAPEL

High School Concert For the tenth consecutive year the Princeton High School chorus will present its annual Christmas concert in the University Chapel. Starting at 8:15 p.m. this Thursday, a 20-voice choir will sing a program under the direction of Thomas Hisham.

The beginning and intermediate voice classes and a trombone choir will accompany the choir and sing a selection of carols 20 minutes before the traditional candlelight procession. The trombonists are Malcolm Fry, Jack Orr and William Seyfarth.

"A Christmas Cantata for Chorus and Brass Instruments" written by Mrs. Martha McKinney of Princeton will be sung by the entire chorus accompanied by a brass choir, and the chorus will sing alone "Das Neugeborene Kindlein" by Dietrich Buxtehude. Other songs on the program will be "Hark! The Bells" and "It Is Fare for Christmas Day," "Lo, How a Rose 'er Blooming" and "Wonderous Was the Night" by Bach.

The Boys' Glee Club will sing the popular German carol, "O Tannenbaum," accompanied by a string quartet consisting of Helen Harbison, Olivia Plantinga, Chris YOUNG SOLOIST Princeton's Bruce Renshaw has had role in Christmas opera to be performed here Saturday.

Schulze and Margaret Shaw. The quartet will accompany the Girls' Ensemble in "O Magis Custos." Choristers will join the chorus in Handel's "Hallelujah" chorus and Bach's "Break forth, o Beauteous, Heavenly Light" at the conclusion of the program.

The organ will be played by Charles Brown, a Westminster Choir College student. The brass choir will be made up of George Hisham, Dennis Hisham, trumpet; Peter Holmes, Robert Rugg, French horns; Malcolm Fry and Jack Orr, trombones. Linda Brown, Julie Bowers and Susan Craig will compose a trio singing the "Intrit" by Monteverdi.

turn, wins all the corn liquor he needs to forget what's going on around him.

Sad Sack (Dec. 25-28) is Jerry Lewis, probably as close as any human can come to acting and looking like a comic strip character. The only trouble is, in this instance, at any rate — is that Jerry overtries to amuse with jokes and military mistakes that were funny the first time, but are a bit ago, but not long, over the hill. "Sad Sack" lacks the freshness of the recent "Operation Mad Ball." Striving frantically, in typical Jerry fashion, to bury under his pomposo-full bag of tricks only to discover that time has marched on and he has failed, albeit it's forced march. Another minor discovery: Lewis without Martin is much of a helpless fencer without his foil.

THE GARDEN
The Curse of Frankenstein and X the Unknown (Dec. 19-22) offer Princeton moviegoers a prime double-feature program, and no doubt these two British "chillers" stand to benefit from the fact that old horror films currently are the rage on television. In "Curse," Doctor Frankenstein tells his story, assisted before his death by his own doctor, his monster's life. It's really pretty average Frankenstein esq. as far as Frankenstein pictures go, but its presentation in Westmoreland is different and is bound to please those who enjoy watching blood curdle in bright red. In "X," a scientist (Dean Jagger) spends a lot of time trying to figure out what strange form of energy is killing many of his fellow countrymen and threatens to wipe out the world. His methods may well be described as "mad science-fiction 'buggs,'" but he finally figures out how to de-energize "X" after showing audiences that "the Unknown" actually is atomic mud-in-your-eye.

Cinderella (Dec. 23 - 28), brought back to town as a wonderful Christmas gift seven years ago, is back again this season. The original story turns into a feature-length cartoon by the artistry of Walt Disney and his talented colleagues. It still ranks with the best of the studio's efforts. All the familiar characters are included and a number of new ones have been added, each a friend or foe of long standing the artist's imagination completed. The humor is delightful without being cute, the mood of fancy is as absorbing for adults as it is for youngsters being told the romantic legend for the first time.

OIL, OIL, THAT'S DIAL. "Oil and the Man" sing. Of how a group of young maidens were spirited away from the switchboards at the Hotel Princeton were compiled onto the sea and to a strange land, to struggle honorably with weapons that were the gift of the green god, Machinicus.

Thus an ancient bard might have told how Princeton entered upon its tutelage in dial telephone technology. However, after three weeks under the new system have passed, there is certainly no suggestion that the struggle with the dial will compare with the Trojan War in length. Most people feel that a few more weeks will suffice to make Princetonians veterans at the system.

Elmer W. Dietz, manager for New Jersey Telephone in this area, reported that mix-ups here have been less than in other communities where the dial was introduced. "Most people in Princeton have traveled enough to have come in contact with the dial telephoning at one place or another," he reported. "I'd say 80 to 90 percent of the people here have used the dial before."

However, Mr. Dietz had to admit that even he had committed a few embarrassing "bloopers" in his new dial telephone system instead of the required alphabet "O" in calling the Trenton exchange "Owen," and was promptly corrected by an operator.

Mild Business Panic. Mr. Dietz also told how Harry Ballot committed a dial error which led him to believe his clothing store was unattended during the Christmas shopping rush. Attempting to reach the store by telephone one day, he dialed a 1 at the starting Wall Street 4-0451, but committed the reverse of Mr. Dietz's error. Mr. Ballot dialed the alphabet "O" for the zero of the number. "All I get is that buzzing sound!" he complained to Mr. Dietz, who came over to see what Mr. Ballot was doing. "Wrong, you dial the zero with the one and the zero is the most common error," the manager pointed out.

Elizabeth Morse, of 40 Battle Road, a member of the telephone committee that "the dial system is great, but sometimes I still just pick up the phone and wait for the operator. Once thinking it, that's the only time more calls without having the operator to worry about. Then, there was the time I got a food market when I was trying to call my dentist."

The opinion that the dial system has its good and bad features was expressed by Everett Campbell, a Princeton pharmacist at Thorne's Drug Store. "I think we had a fine group of girls at the switchboards. They were as fast or faster than the dials on local calls, but dials were better for long distance calls."

Mr. Campbell, too, had to admit he had committed a dialing error. "I got a 1 at the start the other day and apparently I got a long distance zone number," he reported. "The operator cut in and set me straight. I think that after a short while, people will be used to the dial system and it will be just like old times."

PEOPLE In the News

Leo L. Fischer, 40 Clever Lane, has received the "Honorary Award for Design Excellence" from the magazine, Swimming Pool Age. It was presented in recognition of the 1957 design of the pool designed for the Sun Valley Swim Club, Florham Park, N. J.

Mr. Fischer, whose architectural offices are at 340 Madison Street, feels a universal need for family country clubs" and reports that the facility at Florham Park "is the result of considerable research into the recreational aspirations and from members of all walks of the contemporary family group." Blocked in his plans to utilize land in Hopewell Township when Western Electric purchased the former Princeton High School, Mr. Fischer reports that "two other locales near Princeton are under consideration" for club development.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dodge of the Princeton-Kingston Road will leave Monday for a year's stay in Europe to complete research for a new travel book. Mr. Dodge is the author of the "Poor Man's Guide to Europe" series.

Philip L. Strong, an assistant United States attorney for the District of New Jersey and will resume the private practise of law in New Brunswick as a partner of Strong and Strong. Mr. Strong, 30, was appointed as a prosecuting attorney in his one year with the government, having been successful in all criminal prosecutions except one. He also handled numerous civil matters successfully.

Harry Nelson, radioman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Nelson, 166 Warren Avenue, W. Froehlich, Jr., USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Froehlich of 50 Pine Street, have participated in the Student Force training exercise aboard the decommissioned USS Harry E. TRACKWALKER WITH A PH.D.

Melvin Jones, a friendly, sandy-haired man in his early forties, may well be the world's only trackwalker with a doctor's degree.

Since 1953, Dr. Jones has trudged many a mile along railroad tracks from Maine to Texas. His mission: to check with his own eyes the killing power of a unique railroad-bed weed destroyer.

Weeds are a menace to railroad men. They are a fire hazard; wheels slip on them; they hold moisture which rots the ties and undermines the roadbed; they make maintenance difficult. More than 50 kinds of weeds grow along the tracks. Some die easily and stay dead—but many are too tough for ordinary weed killers.

When Mobil scientists developed a promising new oil-based killer—ACRONYL R—Dr. Jones took to the tracks to check it out. It killed the weeds, all of them. Moreover, it's heavy and doesn't blow on to adjacent farmland. It leaves a film that discourages new growth (and also helps keep the tracks from rusting).

You can't buy ACRONYL R herbicide for your garden weeds. It wouldn't work in your home sprayer anyway. It was created for a specific job—and it does that job without equal.

In the same way, Dr. Jones and his fellow scientists develop countless other MOBIL products for the special needs of your business, your car, your home. Whether it's a motor oil or a gasoline or a gear lubricant, it's unique in its field. And you can depend on its quality—for it is a product of Mobil's master touch in oil.

For more information about Mobil research and development activities, write to Room 2400, Socony Mobil Oil Company, Inc., 150 E. 42nd St., New York 17, N. Y.

BUSINESS In Princeton

JINGLE BELLS

But Not Yet All the Way. With Christmas fast approaching and the height of the 1957 shopping spree still to come in the next few days, Princeton merchants at mid-week generally described their year's business as "good." Town Topics learned from a representative number, both downtown and at the Shopping Center, that the "big push" is expected later this month. In general, it develops as anticipated, with few merchants are going to get hurt.

For a variety of reasons, the "spotty" idea was voiced by many Princeton merchants. The weather has been a major cause of large customer turnouts on certain days only—between snowfalls or rainfalls and, of course, the numerous times when customers are driving or walking to buy. Downtown parking problems, increased by the worse-than-usual early and mid-December weather, also have contributed to the "spotty" situation.

A vast majority of merchants questioned on the matter maintained an air of optimism as the final days of Christmas shopping approach. Although money is regarded as more plentiful, people are buying with greater "care" than anytime since World War II, the businessmen are confident Princetonians are purchasing a goodly amount of items by new necessity, not whim. They don't put much stock in the theory that world conditions have curtailed Yule buying to any marked degree.

One Nassau Street merchant spoke somewhat philosophically, perhaps echoing the sentiments of many of his colleagues: "We've got problems, we've got headaches and otherwise, but there, but there that I didn't know about and none that can't be surmounted. My Christmas business won't set any records this year, but I feel I've been the head of year. If I do as well in the next few days as I have in the last week or so, I'll be okay and my family can call it a merry Christmas."

BANK NOTES

Dividends Extraordinarily announced. The board of directors of the Princeton Bank & Trust Company, at its regular December meeting, declared a special year-end dividend of $1.50 per share on the bank's stock payable to stockholders of record December 11. After noting that dividends for the year amounted to $2.40 per share, the directors further declared a regular semi-annual dividend of 80 cents per share payable, out of 1957 earnings on February 1, 1958, to stockholders of record December 11.

Almost simultaneously, George E. Cook 3d, bank president, announced plans for modernization of the company's Hopewell branch. The contract for extensive renovation of the bank building, which was constructed in 1927, had been awarded to local bidders, Louis C. Bondi & Sons, Inc., of Princeton. Work is expected to be completed by next spring.

The plans, according to Mr. Cook, include the complete modernization and air-conditioning of the bank lobby and interior generally, installation of a drive-up teller window and creation of a parking area in a rear of the building. The exterior will also be substantially improved by new architectural treatment.

RIBBON CUT

New Princeton 148, South's Frank E. South, owner of Frank E. South's Garage, Inc., 4 Nassau Street, reported this week that he had decided to sell his franchise by National Bonded Auto, Inc., the nation's largest auto warranty organization. According to Mr. South, who has operated his business in Princeton since 1914, the decision to affiliate with NBC was based on his belief that its warranty plan offers unique benefits to his customers.

As a Cadillac-Oldsmobile dealer associated with a nation-wide company, Mr. South said he can offer his customers protection and service not available from any other source. The NBC franchisees operate in 100 factories, recognized new car dealers and calls for the inspection of used cars not older than five model years, including the current model. All cars are warranted by the dealer. Inspections are made by master mechanics specially trained by NBC, and purchasers are protected for one year anywhere in the United States.

HOCKEY TOURNAMENT

Eight Teams to Play Here. The annual Lawrenceville Invitation Hockey Tournament, drawing eight of the top school teams in the East, will be staged in Baker Rink this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Action will begin Thursday afternoon, with games scheduled for both the Rink and at Lawrenceville, the latter if weather permits.

The second round will be held Friday afternoon with seeded teams that will be determined Saturday morning, with the championship contest set for 2:30 Saturday.

Two outstanding Canadian schools (Trinity of Port Hope, and Ridley of St. Catherine's, both in Ontario) will join six American schools in the tournament. These are St. George's of Newport, R. I., competing for the first time; Choate, Wallingford, Conn.; Kimball Union Academy, N. H.; Lawrenceville; Nichols, Buffalo, N. Y.; and the host school, Lawrenceville.

Trinity is top-seeded, having won the title on three occasions. The veterans team as the choice to replace St. Paul's School of Concord, N. H., as the champion. The latter is not defending its title. Kimball Union, Ridley and Nichols are the other seeded entries.

Six residents of Princeton will play in the three-day affair. Dick Rothman, Don Clegg, and Jim Gilligan are on Lawrenceville's squad. St. George's players include Joe Wright, Oliver Haniff and Bill Stacey. Davy Nichols, a member of the Class of 1940 and former resident of Princeton, is the Lawrenceville coach.

Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Jr., Princeton resident and Lawrenceville trustee, is chairman of the tournament committee. Assisting him are Harry S. Fraker, treasurer; James Carey, Dan D. Coy, George Joseph, P. J. Kehoe, Richard B. Whitney, Donald R. Young and George C. Young, all of Princeton; and Laurence H. Tilton of Lawrenceville.

QUINTET UNBEATEN

Tigers Seek Fifth in Row. It is entirely probable that Princeton's basketball team will go into the New Jersey Tournament at Kinnelon Club next week unbeaten. Only a weak Rutgers outfit, on tap this Thursday night at 8:30 in New Brunswick, remains among the Tigers' eastern foes.

In a pair of games last week, Cappy Cappon's forces added Upsala and Navy to their list of victims, winning in each case despite a lack of finesse. The score against Upsala was 72-28 and at Annapolis, 61-33.

If the team's play against Navy was disappointing because of numerous errors, at least it showed that the Orange and Black is not a one-man outfit. Carl Belz, its top star, has been named as the low-scoring temperature in the last two games, but others have stepped in with satisfactory performances.

At Annapolis, it was Art Klein (see "We Congratulate," page 25) who hit for 18 points while compiling a scintillating .667 floor average to take the pressure off the Tigers. With Fiduczyk, his best performance of the year with 18 points and 13 rebounds, was an asset to the outcome, as was sophomore Jim Branigan with 13 points.

WESTWARD BOUND: Cappy Cappon will lead his unbeaten Princeton basketball team into the Big Seven Tournament at Kansas City next week.

It was 36-all at the half, after the scored had changed hands no less than 17 times in a seesaw affair. The Tigers had held another team more than a four-point lead. The middies, who had hit on a gaudy 46 per cent of their shots in the first half, then exploded off completely, making only two field goals in the first 18 minutes.

Confronted with that kind of opportunity, Princeton gradually dug its way, holding a lead that varied from five to ten points throughout most of the second half. The Tigers were pegged at 35 per cent for the game, with Navy shooting all the way from 48 to 28 per cent.

Upsala, presenting one of the poorer teams to be seen in Dillon Gym during the last decade, was beaten by 18 points at the end of the first half and by 30 midway.

ART KLEIN

Basketball Guard

"The little guy with glasses," said a man who knows basketball well, "really gets around the court. He'll be a big help to the varsity in the next year or two."

Ken Feirman, who played on a championship Tiger basketball team as a sophomore and who is now helping Princeton athletics while directing them for the past two decades, was talking about Art Klein when the latter was a sophomore. The 5-5 resident of Malverne, N. Y., was operating smoothly with the Belz twins, Joe Burns and Bob Bowen (all six feet) on a quintet that swept through its 16-game schedule unbeaten.

As the mid-season mark was reached in his sophomore year Klein was a starting both on the varsity and this year, he is firmly entrenched on the starting five. Last winter, he and team were effective in both end goal—field shooting, achieving a 40% mark from the floor and 81% on the free-throw line.

It was a tight belt held firmly that helped the Tigers break through the troublesome all-court press that Klein was given a starting assignment his sophomore year and often, averaging only 5.5 points; this year, however, his deadly accuracy on 15 and 20-foot sets has plummeted him into the double-figure bracket against all three of the Tigers' toughest opponents to date.

Sports In Princeton

through the second before Cappon began substituting steadily. Finally, it was the high man in this competition who, while Carl Belz, Brangan and Jim Peoples were also in double figures.

The visitors stayed within range during the first ten minutes, but Brangan, who has a good eye from the outside, was on the straight jump shots and the Tigers moved rapidly out of hailing distance. Joe Burns, a 6-5 junior forward, had won a starting assignment this season, said to be in the Upsala and Navy games with a wrenched shoulder but may be ready for Rutgers this week.

BELZ ON FIRE. The Tigers' biggest problem at the moment: when will Carl Belz regain his shooting eye? He could hit only four of 16 shots from the floor at the end of the year, while his accuracy from the foul line was currently so low that he had made Against Navy on Saturday, he marked his first game in the mid-season with a new 100,000 field house with an 18-point performance that topped all players on both teams.

It is, of course, for his fabulous "blind" hook shot from more than 40 feet away last winter that Klein will always be remembered. The incredible field goal gave Princeton a 61-59 victory over Dartmouth in the last second of play and ranked the game the all-time "biggest" of the year.

Klein is all-around above as a basketball player; increasing steadily as it is, provides assurance that he will not go down into history here merely on the strength of his game. He is a good player for Dartmouth. If Princeton stays in the thick of the 1958 Ivy race, much of its ability to do so will be traceable to the contributions made by "a little guy with glasses" in a sport designed for big men.

Just one of his last ten from there.

If Belz stays far below his last year's 16.5 average, the Tigers will have to hope to take the Ivy title away from Yale. Chances are that he will regain his sophomore form, for he is too good on all-around play to remain an around-the-court player. However, his return to top level will have to be accomplished on strange courts for the Tigers play their next seven contests on the road before entertaining Columbia here Friday, January 17.

DEFENSE WEAK.
Hockey Team Loses Two. A total of nine goals yielded to Providence College and Army on successive nights was more than the hockey team could match. It lost to the unbeaten Rhode Island, 5-2, and to the cadets, 4-3.

Had they not played 24 hours earlier, the Tigers might have tied with Army Saturday, since they got off to a 2-0 lead and were no winners. 3-3 with ten minutes to go. However, in the third period, seeing them run out of gas and the visitors beat goalie Sid Guberman for the fourth time at 13:20 to clinch the decision.

The sophomore line of Pete Cook, John McBride and Tony Pell accounted for three of Princeton's five goals in the two games, with another needed trio assisted by John Hill. Getting the two others and the starting line blanked, Cook scored once in each game, and has shown through frequent practice and "ice sense" that he comes from a bockey-playing family.

Both visiting teams had to come from behind to win. Providence went down to a 1-0 deficit early in the second period, but rebounded ed fast and pushed five goals into the Princeton cage before the final buzzer.

Army battled back to tie the game at 2-all before the second period ended and took a 3-2 lead at 4:21 of the final period. A goal from the right side at 10:39 brought the Tigers even again, but they could not hold on and dropped to a 1-2 record so far.

Road Games Ahead. Like the basketball team, Princeton will play a number of games away from home before returning to familiar surroundings. The first of these with a new 4,200-seat rink, is on the schedule at Ithaca this Thursday, with rugged Renneveer Polytechnic to be faced at Troy the next night.

After the holidays, games are set for January 3 and 4 against Boston University and Boston College. If the Tigers manage to trim any of these opponents in addition to Cornell, it will be a major accomplishment.

BOWLING NOTES

The recent posting of the season's high three-game score of 2,857 by Fraze's Market, which happened to be leading the Major League, by a comfortable margin once again served to emphasize the role that team's sponsor and Kingpin, Hal Fraze, has in the development of good bowlers at Princeton Recreation Center...starting his impressive kegling career back in 1941, the popular 31-year-old entrepreneur, located in lessors all over Mercer County, at one time sponsoring three different teams and bowling five nights a week... "I was in good shape in those days," Fraze said this week, "and once I followed a 278 with a 269 to register my highest series, a 703. But bowling is like golf— you still need a commendable 175 average and he has managed to maintain his enviable record of rolling in ABC tournaments everywhere, including Ten Pin, year after year. His vivid recollection is that of finishing runner-up instead of winner in the '49 county tournament with a 272. Encouraged by his record, Fraze, after standing up to the last 15 minutes of competition, but probably his fondest recollection is that of holding together the Major League team despite age when competition existence was threatened, since then, his teams have stood out in the town's top loop, winning its title during the 1949-50 season and winning it again in 1950-51 and 1951-52.

WINNING FORM: Hal Fraze, veteran Princeton bowler, demonstrates that farm that has kept him near the top for 18 years. Despite a final record (see above), Fraze's wife, Betty, who scored high average among women Keglers in Princeton and Hightstown 14 out of 15 consecutive years, is "a lot better than I am."

As Fraze's Market (157 wins) held its edge over runner-up Deckert's Dairy (48) in the Major, Tiger Garage (58) enjoyed a similar margin over Grover Lumber (46). The Firemen's League, the National Guardsmen (64) retained their advantage over Maul Electric (55) among "B" loop leaders. Princeton (55) and Hopewell (55) topped the tri-county Firemen's League and Glenmoor (60) continued to pace Nassau Del (52) in the Industrial Circuit. Among the district keggers, Deckert's (78) kept its games to pass Town Topics (76) in the red-hot Princeton Women's Bowling League race, while the Local Service (8) ended the first half of the season in the Women's Industrial loop just ahead of Nassau Service, Cranbury (78), and Hopewell (76). Individual honors this past week were recorded as follows at P.R.C. • Jim Lewis, 213-191-231 for a 612 series, Jack Lucy, 193-191-221 for a 606 series, Joe Ostrom, 223-241-202, Tom Sculone, 212, Norm Luck, 211, Jim Kelley, 202, and Percy Klatkin, 200, in the Major... READY TO GO
Hockey Juniors State Games. Delayed in starting their 1957-58 ice season, members of the Princeton Hockey Club's juniores set this week's schedule and got down to the more serious business of effecting a schedule. They announced their decision to waste no time in getting into shape. The Lawrenceville School rink is being rented at an impressive price of $300 per night.

The 15-member junior group selected Dick Kenney as its captain for the forthcoming campaign, selecting two assistants: Howard Calkin and Barry Dickin-son, so that each of the team's three lines will have a vice-captain when in competition. Coach John (Chips) Callaway reported that the practice session will be held this Thursday evening with the Nassau State Cup, then the campaign's first game will be —Continued on Page 27

The Rev. Dr. E. Van Dyke Wright, 70, of 10 Nassau Street, died November 14 at his home.

Born in New Haven, N. Y., Dr. Wright graduated in 1892 from Princeton University and three years later from Princeton Theological Seminary. His first ministry—in 1895—was in Wayne, New Jersey.

From 1907 until his retirement in 1936, he occupied the pulpit of the Horton Chapel in Princeton. Middlebown, N. Y., making Princeton his home thereafter, he preached for 14 years in the Kingston Presbyterian Church, although he never became its formal pastor.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Kate Wilkerson Wright; two sons, Edward of Princeton and William of Jersey City; a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Wright of Princeton; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The funeral was held at the Kingston Presbyterian Church with the pastor, the Rev. Harry W. Heaps, officiating. Burial was in the Kingston Cemetery.

should be at 8 p.m. Monday against the Rutherford Flyers in Lawrenceville.

Included on the PHC squad, composed primarily of Princeton High Students, are Bill Max, Jim Jenkins, Tom Tavares, George Schmidt, Jeff Osborne, Ray Wittkop, Bob McCluskey, Joey and Dunc Jay, Tom Sheilon, John Salas and Joel Johnson. John Johnson, also, will see action as soon as a broken hand has mended.

MORE ON SKIERS

Plan Second Meeting. The Princeton Ski Club, having held its organizational meeting a week ago, will hold a second planned meeting at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Princeton Inn, formerly the Manor Hotel, in Kingston. New members will be registered and dates will be set for the club's first ski trips early next year. At last night's meeting, 10 Princetonians were enrolled as charter members of the new organization and a number of others expressed their intention to join the club. Howard Wolpert, one of the club's organizers, showed several ski films.

WINS AGAINST HIGHTSTOWN

PHS Wins. Then Wins. Upset and perhaps angered by a hustling Hightstown quintet, Princeton High's basketball team came alive again yesterday and romped to a commanding 54-41 victory over Freehold club, 61-46. It wasn't as smooth a success as Coach Tony Borzok might have wanted, but, at least, the girls were back on the right track and hopefully, in the right frame of mind for the immediate future. The immediate future, of course, will be their important meeting with Trenton High this Friday night. At 7 o'clock, in Trenton, the Little Tigers will take on an apparently sub-par Toms River club, which the coach of his team can handle. If it's a tight Princeton will begin the customary Christmas hiatus with a respectable 3-1 record to date.

PHS quite obviously was smarting from last Friday evening's upset in Hightstown when Freehold Colonials arrived here yesterday. The Big Blue, who were fired up by Captain Steve Hogen, regular George Wilson and substitute Tony Boccanfuso, raced to a 19-4 advantage before the final period began. The PHS girls, with almost six minutes of the opening period gone — and finished the quarter with a 25-11 lead. Then came the let down in the second period and really cooled off in the second half. In all fairness, however, it should be noted that Freehold switched from an open zone to a more conservative zone protection and, at the same time, Borzok experimented with different reserve combinations, most of the last half. It was pretty sloppy in the late stages, and certainly not much fun for the spectators.

Amherman, Larsen Out on the bright side, PHS scored its first easy triumph over Freehold without the services of forward Alie Amherman, generally the team's top player. And second-string center Bruce Larsen, occasionally a big man under the boards, Amherman aggravated an ankle injury in the first period, was held out in the second to no avail. The PHS girls, however, may be sidelined Friday, too. Larsen started running a fever after the Ram game and was having trouble with a cold Monday and Tuesday.

Boccanfuso filled in admirably for the ailing Amherman, netting 18 points behind Hogarty's 16. The PHS girls, however, were held 14, equal to the total registered by junior Ron Griffiths, the Colonials' 6-4 menace who averaged 25 points in his team's first two games. (One win, one loss) but was limited nicely by reserve Bill Stryker and Wilson.

Statistically, Boccanfuso, hitting on seven of 12 shots, was the PHS girls' best player, with Hogarty, with five of 11, chalked up a creditable 45 per cent, while Wilson's high of 10 rebounds was extremely poor.

Now, in the girls' department, the team's firing percentage was 42 in the first half, but tailed off in the second to 28 as the substitutes shot frequently — for an overall mark of 36 per cent.

Following the game, Borzok observed that he is still not set on the girls' future, especially with Amherman out. He lauded Boccanfuso's shooting in the early part of the victory and congratulated Stryker for his work against Griffiths and his second-half rebound efforts.

Hightstown Outshines. While Princeton and Freehold appeared about even in the vital matter of height, Hightstown proved considerably shorter than the PHS five. Five of the six Hightstowners "those little guys outshined us all the way and deserved to win. We should have had them, but they wanted the win more than we did."

The Rams jumped to an early lead and held a 22-15 margin at half-time. Princeton never threatened seriously thereafter, though the difference was narrowed to the final lone point in the last seconds of play after Phil Moody, Hightstown playmaker, had foul-troubled Stryker. The girls, along with Larry Gunnell's 15 for the winners, was ample ammunition. Boccanfuso scored nine points and Larsen scored eight.

In junior varsity competition, the Little Tigers maintained their big brightness. They lost to Hightstown's juniors by a single point, 32-31, then they bounced back to subdue Freehold's jayvee, 54-36. The Little Rams, under Coach George Pouliot, quiet with 15 points against Hightstown, did it again against Freehold, hitting 18. Jack Hawking was Princeton's top gun, 10, while Julius (Butch) Cross, fresh from a hospital bed, got 10 in the Colonial game.

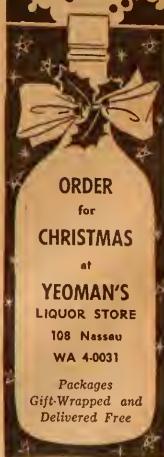

PRESENTS FOR COACH
Hun Wins Twice. Inspired by their "Take charge" guy, Captain Chuck Barron, the Johnny Huns of Princeton's sole prep program maintained their record of the ill effects of a disappointing first-game setback and won two contests in quick succession this weekend. Hun edged Solebury, 36-34, in a thriller on Tuesday after overpowering Hightstown, 34-24, last Friday afternoon.

Barren put the icing on Coach George Selleck's Christmas cake in nearby Pennsylvania. With the score tied 34-all and 30 seconds remaining, Selleck called time out, quieted his team, then in unison, to go for one basket. His captain obliged with a perfect shot from the keyhole as the clock showed two seconds left.

The exciting triumph over Solebury was strictly a come-from-behind effort for the Red Devils. The visitors, from Princeton, led 16-12 at the half and 28-20 at the three-quarter mark. Picking up 6 points, including Barren's tells, in the two final quarters, to the losers' paltry six — Barren capped a real "whistler."

Actually, the hair-raising contest was a complete reversal of the December game which Hun led from start to finish on the Seminary court here. Selleck's crew enjoyed a comfortable 18-1 lead at intermission, then went on to win handily as Barren scored scores on both clubs with 17.

Thus, Selleck was given a pleasant, two-part Christmas present — two victories which already equal Hun's victory total during his lamentable '56-'57 campaign. Next target: Pennington Prep in Pennington on January 10.

BUBIEST CORNER IN PRINCETON? The brand-new intersection of Avalon Place and Bayard Lane appears to be the most active one in Princeton this active pre-Christmas week. No less than three different work crews were busy attending to three different construction projects. At left, employees of Ryan Construction Company, inspired by a recently installed eight-arched bridge, are attempting to lay a new sidewalk on Bayard Lane. In the center, a new two-story addition to the residence of Miss Macon's School pupils is being erected. At right, workers erected a handsome, high fence between Avalon Place and Greenholm residences — of particular significance to parents of Miss Macon's School pupils. And, in the middle of it all, street crews put the finishing touches of the new artery between Bayard Lane and John Street, just opened for public use a week ago. STRICLY UNCOLLEGATED
EX-CO Loots Campuses. Princeton students' sudden loss of considerable amount of personal belongings from their campus rooms while they were in Palmer Stadium enjoying the Dartmouth football game November 23 leaves them to wonder what much of the loot has been recovered on campus — on the University of Maryland campus, that is. Also, the University of Maryland, Park, Md., probably will be located in a matter of days at various pawn shops and at least one pawn shop locker at Philadelphia.

Discovery of the articles stolen from Princeton students, most of them quartered in '74 Hall, led to legend that University of Maryland police arrested Clarence (Slim) Nielsen, a 37-year-old ex-convict, and charged him with three specific complaints — larceny on the Maryland campus. In searching Nielsen, they found items belonging to different Princeton undergraduates, plus several pawn shop tickets and a key to the Philadelphia locker.

After traveling to College Park and obtaining a statement from Nielsen to the effect that he had been in Princeton recently and left some of the more valuable articles in Philadelphia en route to Maryland, Lt. Raymond Mondone of the Board of Education, and the Maryland State Police, extradited the ex-con. The Maryland officers were delighted to see Nielsen go, since they could manage only petty larceny charges against him. The Princeton police determined six distinct counts of entering and larceny.

Given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Paul J. Chiodo in Borough Court last week, Nielsen was charged with taking articles valued at approximately $500, more than $300 of which was recovered. The magistrate ordered the defendant held in Mercer County Jail pending

Reviewing the case, Lt. Mondone said it was "lucky" he bothered to get a statement from Nielsen in Maryland, for the priso—

News Of The CHURCHES

CHRISTMAS, BE JOYFUL
Christmas. The great season of joy and thanksgiving that retains its spiritual essence in spite of commercialism. Christmas will be celebrated in Princeton churches with singing, tableaux, and special services that mark the most glorious day in the Christian calendar.

In Griggstown, members of the new Bunker Hill Lutheran Church will celebrate their first Christmas as a congregation. Christmas Eve service will be held this Friday at 8 p.m., featuring a trumpet solo by Edward Tornquist, a soprano solo by Song M. Madsen, and a duet by Mrs. Finn Morterud and Mrs. Edith Lindborg.

On the Sunday after Christmas, the congregation will hold a traditional Norwegian Christmas festival. There will be a Sunnyside School Christmas program at 3 p.m., followed by the congregation that will last until 5 p.m. The Festival begins at 7:30 p.m. Rev. George Aase will give a message, and then the families of the church will dance around the Christmas tree, singing old carols.

In Kingston, the Columbus Boychoir will sing at 7 p.m. this Friday in the Sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church, and the public is invited to hear them.

Candlelight Vespers will be held this Sunday at 4 p.m. at the Second Presbyterian church, with three choir singing and the pastor telling the story, "This Visited Planet."

Rosedale Chapel will hold a Community Christmas this Sunday at 4 p.m. The church service is a Christmas program by children of the Sunday School, and songs by the choir. A social hour, with Santa Claus, will follow.

Members of the First Presbyterian Church will join in a Christmas program this Sunday at 8 p.m., and at the same hour the Sunday School of the Wetherspoon Presbyterian Church will present a pageant of the Nativity, both choirs participating. Mrs. Floyd Campbell, Miss Madelyn Bolder, and the Rev. David McAlpin are in charge.

Baptists in Penn Neck will join in a Community Christmas Choral Service this Sunday at 7:30 p.m., and in Plainsboro at 7:30 p.m. the Young People's Society will present "The Christmas Pageant," a drama with music provided by the Carol and Crusader Choirs.

Students home from school for the holidays will be entertained by the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackwell at the manse of the First Presbyterian Church, Plainsboro this Friday at 7:30. A Ham and Egg Supper will be served for the first Princeton Presbyterian Church, Princeton, will be held next Friday at 11 a.m.

The annual pageant of Christmas, put on by the children of the Sunday after Christmas at 4 p.m., and the children of the Friends' First Day School will give their Christmas program this Sunday at 10 a.m.

TRADITIONAL CHRISTMAS CEREMONY: Roland Munster, an acolyte in the Little Church of the Holy Angels, carries the fourth candle in the Advent Wreath. One candle is lighted for each of the Advent season to signify the growing expectation of Christ in the centuries which watched and waited—as well as the growing anticipation of the happenings preparing for Christmas. When all four candles are burning, the wreath is said to be "alive" by the evergreens and the lights of Christmas. Roland lives on Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill. (Town Topics photo by Alan Richards) owner told Magistrate Chesbro in court that "he was a victim of circumstance" and did the looting and he was "a victim of circumstance." The police lieutenant pointed out that the looting case was strengthened by the fact that a Princeton undergraduate picked Nielsen out of a row of Borough Hall "lineups" that included Patrolman William Guiney, Health Officer David Patterson, and Patrolman Edward Nielsen, deputy Borough collector.

Nielsen informed Lt. Mondson that his "home" is in North Webster, N. J., and he was a member of the Merchant Marine by occupation. He said he wore khaki trousers to his on-campus raids to "look like a college student." Both Chief John Mathews and Lt. Col. Nielsen's FBI record, which dates back to 1936, indicate a strong leaning toward larceny and pinpoints arrests for minor infractions. Both Chief John Mathews and Lt. Col. Nielsen spent much of his Merchant Marine time on the high seas."

Birth List. Five boys and four girls were born in Princeton area residents in Princeton Hospital last week.

They were born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carnevale, 246 Hawthorn Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Saurat, 54 Murray Place; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Cirincione, 36 Woodward Road; Princeton Park; Mr. and Mrs. William Copard, 1000 Nassau Street.

Parents of daughters are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Neil, 100 Stockton Street; Mr. and Mrs. John and Mrs. John Ober, 100 Nassau Street; Mr. and Mrs. Michael P. Russell, Jr., of 223-B Eisenhower Street.

The boys' choir, glee club, school band, brass quartet and string ensemble will participate in the pageant. Mrs. Virginia Switton and Mrs. Bernadine Cochran are the musical directors.

Gifts for Orphans Sought. Princeton Council No. 636, Knights of Columbus, has launched its annual drive for Christmas gifts. The drive begins Sunday, December 13, to the children of St. Michael's Orphanage, Hopewell.

The children in the orphanage have already addressed letters to Santa Claus (c/o Post Office Box, K of C, Princeton). Those wishing to assist in this program with Drive Carefully!

Motorists and pedestrians are urged to pay heed to the saying "haste makes waste" during the last week of Christmas shopping and travel days. During the year are two experts, the chiefs of police for Borough and Township, John H. Smith and James R. Campbell.

"This is the time when the pedestrian — particularly the last minute shopper — is our greatest hazard," Chief Campbell said. He mentioned darting from behind parked cars to cross in a hurry, and stepping off the curb in a hurry at a traffic light, as dangerous.

Chief Smith is asking for the public's cooperation to prevent traffic snarls and costly traffic accidents. He reminds drivers to stay alert and drive slower and not expect to be able to make a trip in the same time as is possible by taking the long route. "Get the feel of the road when starting out," the Chief warns. "It may save the highway cheer for your family."
